Mohiminol is an associate in our Condominium Law Group. His practice is focused on providing litigation and solicitor services to condominium clients.

Mohiminol assists and advises condominium corporations with general governance matters as well as various contractual, administrative and compliance issues as they arise. He has represented clients in litigation matters as well, and has appeared on behalf of clients at the Ontario Superior Court, Small Claims Court and Condominium Authority Tribunal.

Prior to joining Foglers, Mohiminol practiced condominium law at a full-service law firm in downtown Toronto.

Mohiminol completed his LL.M., J.D. and LL.L. degrees from the University of Ottawa, and his training in both Common Law and Civil Law set the foundation for his ability to analyze legal problems through multiple lenses. He aims to provide clients practical and cost-effective solutions.

During law school, Mohiminol represented the University of Ottawa at the Foreign Direct Investment Moot where his team ranked first overall.

In his spare time, Mo enjoys playing soccer, discovering new hiking trails, and learning about South Asian history. Mo is bilingual and practices law in English and French. He is also fluent in Bengali, Hindi, and Urdu.
